

Practical 19

Write a python program to read the content of a file and return the number of words in a file to the user.