

Practical 15

Write a C program to read and store the roll no and marks of twenty students using an array. Display the same array to user in appropriate format.